STRIKERS RESTRAINED

A Sweeping Injunction Against the [illegible] Railroad Employes.

[illegible] AT THE WHITE HOUSE

[illegible]

CHICAGO, July 3.—[illegible]

"The General Managers' association," says Mr [illegible] "has made common cause with the Pullman company and we cannot settle with either side. There must be agreement with both or none."

The general managers of the Chicago railroads issued the following bulletin: "The worst reports come from the Rock Island road which was not able to move any trains on account of a crowd of 3,000 people at Blue Island who controlled the situation there, the United States deputy marshals and the Cook county deputy sheriffs being powerless to handle the mob.

"On the Michigan Central the indications are that there will be considerable trouble on account of the employment of new men to take the places of the striking switchmen. The Illinois Central is still in bad shape regarding suburban business. It is moving through trains. The Milwaukee and St Paul is also badly embarrassed by the striking employes. On these roads occurred the most serious difficulties. Seventeen roads in Chicago are all more or less embarrassed by the strike.

"The railroads have not altered their position, and will not parley with men who want to strike. The places of men who strike will be filled as fast as possible and force will be met with force to the extent of asking the state for troops to keep the roads open wherever this action becomes necessary. If the state cannot afford ample protection the railroads will ask the United States government to send troops to the scene of disturbances."

Two thousand strikers at Blue Island yesterday overcame 200 deputy sheriffs and marshals. The latter gave up the unequal battle and called for state and federal aid. The strikers gathered around the cars and effectually stopped any attempt to move the trains.

United States Marshal Arnold and Deputy Leibrandt spent the morning trying to move a long line of passenger cars that blocked the Rock Island yards at Blue Island. About noon the train was made up and started out of the yards. Stones were thrown by the strikers, knives were drawn, and the deputies on the train showed their revolvers. The strikers so hemmed in the train and yards that it [illegible] them to interfere with traffic. The injunction was issued at the instance of United States District Attorney [illegible] United States troops.

Arthur Counsels Moderation.

CLEVELAND, July 3.—In reply to [illegible] telegrams received [illegible] engineers [illegible] railway [illegible] and reminds them that they are, as a rule, working under an agreement with the various railways for a stated period. He says the engineers have no grievances and should not be influenced by strikers to take part in a contest with which they are not concerned. Chief Arthur, however, will uphold engineers who refuse to go out with green crews.

The Situation at Decatur, Ills.

DECATUR, Ills., July 3.—There has been but little change in the strike situation here, except the arrival of companies of the state militia from Delavan, Lincoln and Peoria. The Decatur company was ordered to join them. The appearance of [illegible] here, as there had been no act of violence beyond an attempt of a striking brakeman to turn a [illegible] on an air brake. The troops were ordered by Governor Altgeld apparently on information from the delayed passengers here who asked for assistance in having trains moved, and from Sheriff Perl, who telegraphed that he feared he could not preserve order without reinforcements. The railroad company has apparently made no effort to do more than move a passenger train or two.

Senator Davis' Warning.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Senator Davis, of Minnesota, in response to a telegram from D. D. [illegible], president of the Duluth division of the A. R. U., replied: "I will not support Senator Kyle's resolution. It is against your own real welfare. It is also a blow at the security, peace and rights of millions of people who never harmed your associates. Houses were unroofed and the corn crop badly damaged.

Columbia May Go to China.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—The repairs to the bottom of the cruiser Columbia have been completed, and the big ship was floated out of the dry dock at League Island navy yard this afternoon. The cruiser has been in the dock nearly four weeks, during which time the Cramps, who have the contract for repairing her, removed and straightened six outside keel plates and five inner plates. Now that the repairs, which cost less than $10,000, are completed the Columbia is pronounced as sound as she ever was. The belief is current in naval circles that the Columbia will be ordered to China. This belief is strengthened by the fact that war between China and Japan over the Corean question seems imminent.

Charges Against Omaha's Mayor.

OMAHA, July 3.—Charges were filed against Mayor Bemis in the district court today by Councilmen Hascall and Wheeler, bitter enemies of the mayor, who allege that Mr. Bemis has obstructed the enforcement of the law against gambling, that he illegally spent money on Kelly's industrial army, and that he sold Bemis park to the city, contrary to law, receiving $10,000 for the land. The present move is considered a scheme on the part of contractors and boodlers to overturn the city government temporarily.

Italian Strikers Threatening.

CAPE MAY, July 3.—Two hundred Italians, who for the past two months have been working on the South Jersey railroad for Contractor H. A. FIVE KILLED AND [illegible] INJURED.

[illegible]

[illegible], July 3.—[illegible] tion of the Pullman, which was at the rear, went through the trestle striking upon the rocks, stumps and roots of trees beneath. The wooden trestle at the eastern end of the bridge completely collapsed, with forty feet of the roadbed approaching it.

Into a Burning Trestle.

ANNISTON, Ala., July 3.—The north passenger train which left here at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon on the Alabama Mineral railroad ran into a burning trestle near Edmondson, two miles out of town. The trestle was at the bottom of a grade, just around a sharp curve. It was too late to stop the train when the fire was discovered. The engine and tender went across, but the express, mail and baggage cars fell in, pulling down two passenger coaches. All three were burned. Engineer W. H. [illegible], Fireman William [illegible] and one or two others were hurt, but not fatally. The passengers escaped by the rear of the train unhurt.

Ran Off a Trestle.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., July 3.—A passenger train on the Florence and Cripple Creek road, bound south, left the track a short distance from here. The entire train, consisting of engine, baggage car and two coaches, ran off the trestle. W. D. [illegible], a passenger, had his head buried in the sand and was smothered to death. Frank [illegible], a brakeman, was so badly squeezed between cars that he may die. Two others were seriously injured.

The "Cowboy Evangelist" Released.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 3.—J. R. Rice, the "cowboy evangelist," was released from the county prison yesterday by order of Supreme Court Justice Garrison, and last night took part in the organization of a Citizens' [illegible] league. The latter proposes to apply to the Pennsylvania Railroad company for permission to use a large lot belonging to the company upon which to hold meetings. Rice came here from Chicago and with his wife has been giving the authorities great trouble by holding religious services in the streets.

NEW YORK, July 3.—The attendance at Sheepshead Bay yesterday was good, and as a rule the races were interesting. The usual fine race was seen in the handicap when Sport and Don Alonzo ran nose and nose for nearly half a mile, the last quarter being a hard drive. The distance was a mile and an eighth. Stowaway took the lead and held it for half a mile. Then Don Alonzo went to the front and remained there until but half a mile was left to go, when Sport joined him. At the turn into the stretch Sport clung on and in the last few jumps poked his nose far enough in front to win. Time, 1.57 1-5.

Massachusetts' Legislature Adjourns.

BOSTON, July 3.—The legislature was prorogued by Governor Greenhalge at 7.30 last evening after a session lasting 150 days, being the longest on record except that of 1883. Secretary of State Olin conveyed to the senate and house the governor's declaration of prorogation and stated that during the session the governor had signed 549 acts and 111 resolves, withheld his signature from four acts and vetoed four.

Big Shipments of Coal.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 3.—The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad company shipped a larger tonnage of coal from Palo Alto during the month of June than during any month for fifty years. Forty-three trains were sent out to the west and tidewater on Saturday alone and the shipments for the month will aggregate 1,0[illegible]0,000 tons. The coal and coke strikes are assigned as the cause of the increase.

Fatally Shot by Her Lover.

VANCEBURG, Ky., July 3.—Near Tollesboro Charles Dusan, 21 years old, shot and fatally wounded Miss Mattie Hull, 18 years old. Dusan had been waiting on the young lady for some time, but when he proposed to her she refused to marry him. Dusan then fired three shots into the unfortunate girl's body. OCALA, Fla., July 3.—Ira M. Perry, a prominent citizen of this county, was arrested yesterday on a charge of incest, preferred by his 19-year-old daughter. The girl says that her father ruined her seven [illegible] ago. Yesterday she refused to continue their relations longer and he assaulted her in a savage manner. She made complaint, and Perry was arrested but escaped while en route to jail. There is talk of lynching if he is apprehended.

Thirty Thousand Workmen Idle.

PITTSBURG, July 3.—All the window glass houses in Pittsburg, all the flint glass houses of the United States Glass company, the sheet mills and most of the iron mills are shut down. As a result nearly 30,000 workmen are idle. This is largely because of the usual shut down to take stock in some factories and mills and to limit production in others.

Four Hundred Killed in Battle.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 3.—Information has been received of fighting between Circassian settlers and Druses in Syria, in which 400 were killed and wounded. Twelve women and children were massacred during the fighting. The Druses were badly armed and were the greatest sufferers.

TEMPLE CHURCH AND COLLEGE.

An Institution Which Is Practically the Result of One Man's Work.

Philadelphia has a phenomenal preacher in the person of Russell H. Conwell, who has the largest [illegible] and the [illegible] [illegible]. Hundreds are turned away from the doors every Sunday, and visitors who do not [illegible] have to apply for tickets several days in advance. In connection with his

RUSSELL H. CONWELL. church—the Grace Baptist, at the corner of North Broad and Berks street—he has built up a college chartered by the state, with a curriculum modeled after Princeton's, where 120 students are taking the regular college course, and where 3,500 others are getting instruction day after day and night after night in all sorts of studies, practical and otherwise. This college has a faculty of 40 professors, who give their whole attention to this work. The students are the plain people—the poor—and each pays $3 a year tuition, and with these fees and gifts that are coming in all the time the college is self supporting. Next fall it is expected that the college will have 6,000 students. In addition to all this, the church supports a public hospital of 22 beds.

The church building is practically a club. Its basement is fitted up in various suits of rooms, where the members spend their afternoons and evenings. In one part of the building the business men have their room, where they sit and chat or read or hold meetings of various kinds. Over in another part of the place the young men or young women have their social apartments. The boys of the church have a military organization and drill regularly, and the athletic association has its own athletic ground.

Dr. Conwell, the man who has accomplished all this, started to preach in Philadelphia 12 years ago with a church of 90 members. He had been a preacher only about two years before he went to Philadelphia. Before that he had been a lawyer for 10 years in Boston and before that a reporter, an editor and a soldier. He is a self made man and was born on a farm in Worthington, Mass., 51 years ago. He was a student at Yale when the war came on, and at the age of 19 he led a company from Massachusetts to the field. He saw the sharpest kind of service and during his soldier career was wounded twice. He came out of the war a lieutenant colonel.

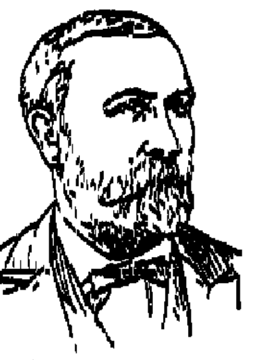
Dr. Conwell's church is known as The Temple, and his college is incorporated as Temple college. His salary is $10,000 a year, but with his lectures he earns $25,000 probably. To run the church costs $60,000 a year. To run the college costs $98,000. To run the Samaritan hospital costs $23,000. For five years Dr. Conwell supported the college himself, giving part of his salary and the proceeds of his lectures to it.

Dr. Conwell is not a sensational preacher in the generally accepted use of that term. He often speaks on topics of current interest, but he also preaches what might be called doctrinal sermons. He has a slow, deliberate speech, a resonant voice, uses the simplest words, recites anecdotes, gives much popular information in his talks, rises to eloquence occasionally and always speaks extemporaneously.

FATHER OF THE PENSION LAW.

Major Edmund N. Morrill Would Like to Succeed Governor Lewelling.

Major Edmund N. Morrill, who heads the Republican state ticket as candidate for governor of Kansas, has been closely identified with the history of the state since the territorial days. He moved from Maine to Kansas in 1857 and located in what is now Brown county at the town of Hamlin and erected a sawmill. He was an active sympathizer with the Free State party, and in 1857 he was elected to represent Brown and Nemaha counties in the first Free State legislature that ever met in the state and took a conspicuous part in repealing the "bogus" laws that had been enacted by nonresidents, the purpose of which was to prevent the growth of the Free State party and to aid in the perpetuation of slavery. In January, 1858, Mr. Morrill was elected a member of the legislature under the Lecompton constitution.



MAJOR MORRILL.

During all of the exciting political battles of that period Morrill continued to operate his sawmill. In 1861 he enlisted in the Seventh Kansas cavalry as a private and served till Oct. 20, 1864, when he was mustered out as a brevet major.

He returned to Brown county and made his home at Hiawatha, where he has resided ever since. He at first engaged in a general mercantile business and in 1871 established a bank. He served as clerk of the district court and was twice elected to the state senate. In 1882 he was elected congressman for the state at large and was thrice reelected as a representative from the First district, declining a renomination and retiring to private life in 1890. In Speaker Reed's congress he was chairman of the pensions committee and directed all the pension legislation. He is the author of the pension law now in force which bears his name. Major Morrill was born in Cumberland county, Me., Feb. 12, 1834, and was educated at Westbrook academy. In early life he taught school and learned the trade of a tanner.

It's Education—

simply a matter of education—the use of Pearline for washing and cleaning. The bright women, those who learn quickly, are using it now. The brighter the woman, the larger her use of it—the more good uses she finds to which she can put Pearline. Dull women, those who never use new things until their bright sisters have drummed it into them—they'll use it presently. It's just a question of sooner or later, with every woman who wants the best.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back.

MR. WILSON TALKS.

MY Name is Wilson: I do an insurance business on LaSalle street, in Chicago Ill., and I live in Evanston, Ill. Evanston is what was originally a scattering population on a pretty point on Lake Michigan, esteemed years ago far from the city of Chicago, but now one of the varied towns which may go within it by vote of the population.

I am married and have a wife and one child. That child is a boy (I suppose I should feel the same solicitude if it was a girl), and I have a father's natural fancies as to what must be the best thing to give that child the right kind of intelligence, and so divert his course that he may succeed in life. I have studied a great deal upon the subject. My own experience would not be of great value, because I have succeeded only to the limit of the average man and am barely established; still, I own the house and lot upon which I live, and am feeling perfectly safe in meeting the exigencies of the year. I want the boy to take a broader view than I did, to be a bigger man in the world. I have studied how to teach him to do that, and he has done pretty well, as far as the preliminaries go. Now, I have thought over what I should say to him and have sometimes been puzzled. I could not very well tell him what to do. I wanted to tell him what I needed but what I did not learn myself when I was of his age, and what my father did not know how to tell me, or else was not thoughtful enough to do so. I wanted to tell him how to follow the example of those who have succeeded at the present time and under the circumstances which ordinarily affect a young man struggling in this Republic established on this comparatively new world to-day. I wanted to tell him just what he had better do to get along well, and to point out to him what had been done by the people who were successful at the present time.

Of course, the record of the people of any time past would not be of so much value, because circumstances must necessarily have been different when they were alive. I feel confident, though, that if I could learn, some way and somehow, what the people who are so successful to-day have done and how they did it, I could give to my boy such advice as would make his own life at least as far removed from failure as justified by the natural ability he may possess.

I looked around for some authority which I might consult in order to give him the facts most essential with this idea of mine in mind, but I could find none until I discovered that a great publishing firm in Chicago had decided to bring out a book giving the photographs of all the people who are prominent in America to-day. Here was what I wanted. The book, as I have learned, is going to be published in 16 parts, 16 pages to each, with a recent photograph on each page of some active leading American man or woman of to-day, while underneath appears the story of that same person's life—the story telling what that person did, and how the ends attained were eventually accomplished. Here was what I wanted; here was what I needed in various ways; here was what I was certainly seeking in order to obtain the information with which to educate my boy and secure for him that knowledge which will give him a source of thought and make him prominent in the world.

I have the first sheets of this work. It is a graphic story of America's Greatest Men and Women, told in each instance on a single page underneath a photograph of recent date, which conveys to the eye an idea of what that person is. To me the photograph tells even more than the suggestive record beneath; and yet it is odd how in each instance the correct story corresponds with the expression upon the face which is reproduced in the portrait above. I do not know how the series will end. I know very little about this new feature of the newspaper people; I know nothing about the publishers and their expectations, but I do know this: that if the series so begun should be continued to its practical, ordinary good sense end—and I don't care whether that will include 200 or 700 of America's Greatest Men and Women, which is the title of the book—I do know this, that for the ordinary, active and alert business man—I will certainly say far more for the student or the literary man, or the politician or the statesman—for all these I will say it will be simply the most valuable and the most remarkable book produced in modern history. The wonder is that some one has not thought of it before. Yet no one seems to have done so since the days of Plutarch. Plutarch knew something. That shrewd old fellow knew that all who would get out of the drift, all who would accomplish great things, wanted to know every detail of the lives of those who had better luck or more courage or a broader brain than their fellows; but I am no authority on these points. I only know that there is produced a second Plutarch's Lives, that its biographies are shrewd, graphic and curt, and written without bias and without prejudice. I only know that there was a Plutarch—God bless the old fellow—and that there is this modern work.

This is the work I am going to give to my boy. I am going to make him read it thoroughly. The work is announced as consisting of 16 Parts, with 16 pages and 16 photographs in each part, and when bound, the whole series will make a great volume of 256 pages, the like of which has never been equaled. It is the story of the personal character of the men and women who are making the nation's history at this particular time. What a work this is! Do you imagine that I would miss it for my boy, or, incidentally, for myself?

AWFUL ABSINTHE.

THE HORRIBLE DRUG WHICH IS POPULAR IN FRANCE.

Its Chief Ingredient Is Wormwood, and It Poisons the Body and Burns Away the Brains of Its Victims—The Wickedest Intoxicant In the World.

During the Algerian war, which lasted from 1844 to 1847, the French army were more in danger from African fevers than from Algerian enemies. Several things were tried as antidotes or preventives by the skillful army physicians. Finally absinthe was hit on as the most effective [illegible].

The soldiers were ordered to mix it in small quantities three times a day with the ordinary French wine. The luckless happy-go-lucky privates grew to like their medicine, which at first they swore at bitterly for spoiling with its bitterness that beautiful purple vinegar they fondly fancy is wine. But when absinthe alone began to usurp the time honored place of claret in the affections of the French army the evil became an unmixed one.

Absinthe straight as a beverage is a direly different thing from absinthe mixed as a medicine or an occasional tonic. The victorious army on their triumphal return to Paris brought the habit with them. It is now so widespread through all classes of Parisian society—and Paris gives the cue to France—that Frenchmen of science and publicists regard the custom of absinthe tippling as a vast national evil.

The consequence of the use—and use of this drug ripens to abuse, even with men of unusual will power—has been in France disastrous to a dreadful degree. Many men of remarkable brilliancy have offered up their brains and their lives on the lurid altar of absinthe. Baudelaire, who translated all Poe's works into French, had a terribly grotesque passion for the pleasant green poison. In one of his mad freaks this minor French poet actually painted his hair the same tint as the beverage that corroded his brain, possibly from an odd fancy to have the outside of his head correspond with or match the inside.

Alfred de Musset, who was the French Byron, plus a tenderer, naiver touch, also fell a victim to the drug after George Sand gave the final smash to his fragmentary heart. Guy de Maupassant is reported to have burned his brains away with the same emeraldine flames. The brain disease caused by this drug is considered almost incurable. Far worse than alcohol or opium, it can only be compared to cocaine for the fellness of its clutch on poor humanity.

Yet we take it occasionally as an after dinner settler of digestive debts in this country, and quite often as an appetizer or tonic before meals, while in New Orleans, throughout the older quarter, little cabarets, devoted almost exclusively to the sale of it, are quite common.

What, then, is this dreadful drink composed of, and how is it made? The answer is easy enough, though the process, to insure perfection in the evil, is not so. Absinthe may be technically described as a redistillation of alcoholic spirits (made originally from various things—potatoes, for instance), in which, to give it the final character, absinthium with other aromatic herbs and bitter roots are ground up, or macerated, in chemist lingo.

The chief ingredient is the tops and leaves of the herb Artemisia absinthium, or wormwood, which grows from two to four feet in great profusion under cultivation, and which contains a volatile oil, absinthol, and a yellow, crystalline, resinous compound called absinthin, which is the bitter principle. The alcohol with which this and the essentials of other aromatic plants are mixed holds these volatile oils in solution.

It is the precipitation of these oils in water that causes the rich clouding of your glass when the absinthe is poured on the cracked ice—double emblems or warnings of the clouding and the crackling of your brain if you take to it steadily. Thus every drink of the opaline liquid is an object lesson in chemistry that carries its own moral.

Some barroom Columbus, ambitious to outdo Dante and add another lower circle to the inferno, recently invented or discovered the absinthe cocktail. A little whisky—the worse the better—a dash of bitters, a little sugar and plenty of iced absinthe make about the quickest and wickedest intoxicant in the world.

The continued use of absinthe gives rise to epileptic symptoms as an external expression of the profound disturbance of the brain and nerves. One large dose of the essence of the wormwood indeed has been noted as causing almost instantly epileptiform convulsions in animals. But the drug is not without its uses from a broad point of view. As the name implies, it is an anthelmintic, or a pretty sure cure for certain kinds of animal life that sometimes infest the intestines of men, causing pain and death. This peculiar property was well known to the Greeks, who had a wine infused with wormwood called absinthites.

In some parts of Germany wormwood is used in lieu of hops for the brewing of certain brands of beer, and it unquestionably has valuable tonic properties. Absinthe is made almost everywhere, except in the extreme tropics, and the New York variety is just as good—or bad—as any. The duty on French absinthe is very high—$12 a case of a dozen bottles.

The first effects of it are a profound serenity of temper and a slight heightening of the mental powers, coupled with bodily inertia. This is the general rule; but, as a famous physician once remarked of a dreadful disorder in his lecture room, "Gentlemen, the chief glory of the beautiful disease I am now explaining is the remarkable variety of its manifestations."—New York World.

One would scarcely expect to find ox cart [illegible] but they are [illegible] part [illegible]. That young farmers today buy no carts, but horses, not ox carts, but wagons and horse carts. We found it in the [illegible] the [illegible] church. There is [illegible] that the latter was built in that place because of the tree, for which the Indians had great veneration. It is [illegible] of the same kind as the tree of [illegible], but the largest there is only [illegible] in circumference, while this [illegible] measurement, 152 feet 4 inches. There is another difference, and a very marked one, and that is the tendency to a flattening of the lower and larger branches and of the peculiar buttresses which the trunk throws out. In the latter they are almost as flat as boards, and in the branches the form is that of a wedge. The contrast between these and the upper ones, which are rounded, is very striking. The trunk is not like an ordinary one, but resembles a buttressed wall, so that the two diameters vary enormously. The height must be less than 200 feet, making the appearance in a photograph almost dwarfish. The spread of the branches from north to south is gigantic, and the effect of light and shade is entrancing to the artist. There are colonies of lizards and of various birds in the different departments of the trunk and branches, and upon the green dome of the top were a grouped buzzards that croaked without intermission during our whole stay.—San Francisco Chronicle.

THE FIELD COLUMBIAN MUSEUM.

Chicago Has a Substantial Memorial of the Great World's Fair.

In the Field Columbian museum, which was formally opened the other day, Chicago has the nucleus of a collection which may in time rival that of the mammoth British museum in London. The historic relics and curiosities of science, literature and art, most of which were at the World's fair, are housed in the Art palace of the great exposition, which was considered one of the finest buildings on the grounds. A reference library of 10,000 volumes is connected with the museum and [illegible] the library [illegible] on the plan of [illegible] The total cost of the building and its contents is about $[illegible],000, but it would be impossible to duplicate the museum in its present shape for twice that sum. EDWARD E. AYER.

Edward E. Ayer, the president of the Field Columbian museum, is one of Chicago's wealthiest and best known business men. He was the active mover in the museum project from its inception and donated a collection of Indian relics valued at $100,000. It represents the dress, manufactures, weapons and customs of the Apache, Sioux, Cree, Pima, Yuma, Navajo, [illegible], Choctaw, Comanche and Chippewa Indians and the Alaska and north [illegible] Eskimo. It is said to be the best ethnological collection of Indian life and methods in the world.

Mr. Ayer was born in Kenosha, Wis., Nov. 1[illegible], 1841. He was educated in district schools in Wisconsin and Illinois and in 1861 went to California. There he enlisted in the First California cavalry. He was afterward transferred to the First New Mexico infantry, where he was promoted to be second lieutenant. In 1864 he resigned and returned to his father's home at Harvard, Ills., and began business as a railroad contractor. In 1881 he bought timber lands and sawmills in Arizona and organized the Ayer Lumber company, with a capital stock of $500,000.

WHERE GRANT MET JULIA DENT.

Jefferson Barracks Is Rich In Interesting Reminiscences of Military Heroes.

Just south of St. Louis and near Carondelet, on the west bank of the Mississippi river, is a broad valley filled with straggling yellow buildings. There is nothing beautiful about the place, but the name, "Jefferson Barracks," will recall to military men a flood of half forgotten memories and episodes and identifies the place with the historic west and [illegible] since famous on the battlefields of the civil war. The old yellow buildings, too, are wound up in the life romance of General Grant and also that of the president of the southern confederacy.

LIEUTENANT COLONEL SAMUEL S. SUMNER.

The barracks and general quarters were erected in 1826 under the supervision of General Henry Atkinson, the first commandant of the post. In 1832 famous old Black Hawk and all his chiefs were confined there as prisoners. While they were there Jefferson Davis, fresh from West Point, was made a lieutenant in the new First cavalry. Lieutenant U. S. Grant appeared at Jefferson Barracks in 1843. At a ball given by the officers to the citizens of Carondelet he met Miss Julia Dent, a native of the village, and a few months later he married her in one of the old yellow buildings.

General Joseph E. Johnston took command of the post in 1838, and in 1855 Jefferson Davis organized the Second cavalry there. Under him were Albert Sidney Johnston, Robert E. Lee, General Hardee, Thomas, Van Dorn, Kirby Smith, Stoneman and others since famous.

When the war broke out, the barracks were turned into a hospital. Subsequently they became the property of the engineer and ordnance corps. Lately the officials at Washington have transformed the place into a cavalry school.

General Grant, Jefferson Davis, General Lee, Stonewall Jackson, Albert Sidney Johnston and Generals Hardee, Kirby Smith and Thomas have passed away. Yet the old yellow buildings still remain almost unchanged. The reveille guns and trumpeters wake the post to life every morning and put it to sleep every night the same today under the present commandant, Lieutenant Colonel Samuel S. Sumner, as they did 55 years ago under General Atkinson. Colonel Sumner is a son of the late Brevet Major General Edwin Vose Sumner, who served for 15 years in the regular army and died in the Larness in 1863 after rendering distinguished services in the civil war.

Senator Hill refuses to discuss the rumor that he is a candidate for Governor. One of his friends said, however, to the Herald's Washington correspondent that he is well satisfied to remain in the Senate, has no wish to be Governor and will favor the renomination of Gov. Flower if the Governor will be a candidate for a second term.

The Binghamton Leader comes to us enlarged by the addition of a column to each of its eight pages and printed from handsome new type. An improved Goss perfecting press, with a capacity of 12,000 eight page papers an hour, has been added to the office's equipment. We note with pleasure these evidences of our neighbor's well deserved prosperity.

Nineteen women of Greenwich, Conn., took advantage of the right given them by the last Legislature and participated in the election for school committeemen, which was held, yesterday. A women, Miss Josephine Lyon, was a candidate for membership in the school board and came within one vote of an election. Strange to say, all the votes that she received were cast by men, the women voting solidly against her.

It would have been money in the pockets of the railroad employes of the West, if instead of trying, by boycotting Pullman coaches, to force the Pullman Company to grant the demands of its 330 striking shop hands for increased wages, they had retired the strikers on pensions, or maintained them in elegant leisure for the rest of their natural lives. It it safe to say that the strike has already cost the railroad employes of the West not less than $1,000,000 in wages, and the end is not yet.

The "riot gun" with which United States Marshal Arnold, of Chicago, armed his deputies, yesterday, is a epeating shotgun and is said to be e most powerful hand arm ever ided with powder and ball. The eapon is of large bore and its agazine contains room for six cart- dges loaded with three and a half unces of powder and twelve buck- he six cartridges can be fired ee seconds, thus throwing seventy-two scattering bullets, any one of which would inflict a serious wound at eighty yards' distance. The magazine can be reloaded in half a minute and a fairly good marksman, if firing into a crowd, ought to be able to disable over a hundred men a minute. Marshal rnold says that five determined nen, if armed with these weapons nd fairly protected could easily cope ith a mob of 50,000 rioters.

The total assessed valuation of ew York city for this year is $2,003,-33,037, an increase of $69,000,000 over ast year's figures. Of the total as- essment only $390,274,302 is on per- onal property, all the rest being on alty. It is believed that the tax te, which for State and city pur- oses was $1.82 per $100, last year, n be reduced this year to $1 81 or .80. In spite of all that is said bout bad government in New York y the tax rate is kept down to very figures, and the taxpayers get a at deal for their money. In Mid- town, last year, the city tax rate s $2.46 per $100 and the State and unty tax rate ninety cents per 00, making the total rate $3.36, or ll on to double the New York city e. It is quite the fashion just w to howl about Tammany meth- s of government, but a great many Middletown people would not object to Tammany methods in our city affairs, if we could but have a Tammany tax rate of $1.82 for all urposes.

Cured in Five Months by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"My little girl, Lulu, has been a great sufferer from a scrofula bunch on her neck. It has troubled her for the past two years. Last winter at the age of five years, she caught cold and it settled in the back of her neck which became so painful I was obliged to have it lanced. Having read about Hood's Sarsaparilla, I decided to give it a trial. She has been taking it for five months and I am glad to say

ELECTRIC RAILWAY MATTERS.

Work on the abutments of the bridge over the Wallkill, at Midway Park, was commenced yesterday, and will be completed by the time the ironwork arrives, and but a short time will be required to complete the structure.

The grading of the road to the Wallkill was completed yesterday, and as soon as the ties are received the track will be laid, and it is believed this will be completed this week, and but for the fact that there is still a gap between Academy avenue and the O. and W. depot, the cars would be running to the Wallkill within a week. The officers of the company would not then wait for the completion of the iron bridge to open the road, but would construct a temporary wooden foot bridge over the river from the terminus of the road to Midway Park.

Manager [illegible], this morning, gave out the specifications for the pavilion at Midway Park. It is to be located on the river bank, and will be built in pagoda style. The dancing floor will be forty feet square, with a veranda eight feet wide all around it. The veranda on the river front will extend over the water.

It also is the intention to erect a number of rustic summer houses about the park.

The force of men that has been at work on the grading of the road was, to-day, set to work digging out the swale from the river bank a considerable distance in the park, to form a lagoon for the anchorage of the electric launches and row boats that it is intended to put on the river.

Engineer Smith went to the park, to-day, to make surveys for the foot paths and driveways through the park, and as soon as the lagoon is finished the company's force of men will be put at work on them.

The deed for the farm on which Midway Park is located was passed to the Traction Company yesterday.

Should the Traction Company fail in its efforts to secure the rights of way through Fulton avenue, there will be no delay in the opening of the road to Midway Park, for it has the franchise and the necessary consent to construct a line through [illegible] avenue, and will do so if necessary.

SHOT FROM AMBUSH.

A Man 78 Years Old Shot by a Jealous Husband.

A man named McAdams, aged about fifty years, living about three miles from [illegible], in Delaware county, on Thursday, fired two shots at a man named Lancaster, aged seventy-eight years, one of the balls grazing the old man's shoulder and the other entering the calf of his leg and following the bone towards the foot. The latter ball has not yet been found.

The two men are farmers living in the same neighborhood. McAdams was jealous of Lancaster whom he suspected of intimacy with his wife. He hid in a clump of bushes which he knew Lancaster would pass and when he came along began firing.

McAdams was arrested and committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

Lancaster has had several narrow escapes during his life. He was badly chewed up by a wild cat several years ago; later several logs rolled over him, breaking nearly every bone in his body, from which he is still badly crippled.

A BEEF FAMINE.

Effects of the Railroad Strike on Middletown's Meat Supply.

Owing to the railroad strike in the West, the Middletown Beef Company is not receiving its usual supplies and as a result, the stock of fresh meat is about exhausted, with no prospect of being renewed for the present, at least.

Manager [illegible] said, this morning, that he had about stock enough for two days' trade and no more.

One carload of meat has been shipped from Kansas City, but it will not reach here before Friday, even if not delayed by the strike.

In Newburgh, yesterday, owing to the short supply of beef, prices at the refrigerators, were advanced $1 per 100 pounds.

Straw Hatting in Matteawan.

The Mase straw hat works at Matteawan have been shut down for the season. The Carroll shops will run till July 15th, having large orders for wide, soft roll brims for the late city trade. Many wide, stiff brims are also being made. The straw hat season at the Carroll Works has been so successful that there is talk of enlarging the factory, by adding another story to the factory or building a wing.

[illegible], No Use for a Husband.

Y., a short time ago, and on the wedding day he presented his bride with [illegible] in cash. The money, it seems, was all Mary cared for, as her aged husband has advertised her as having left his bed and board.

Arrested the Wrong Man.

Anton Carlson, the man arrested on train 5, in Port Jervis, Friday night, on the charge of committing a forgery in Jamestown, was not the man wanted. The Chief of Police, of Jamestown, arrived Saturday night, and a single glance convinced him that a mistake had been made. Carlson was locked up for twenty-four hours and ought to have redress.

All Because of a Smashed Finger.

A brakeman on a Lackawanna freight train had a finger pinched while coupling cars, near Paterson, the other evening. He held up the injured member to show it to the fireman on the locomotive, and the sight of it caused the fireman to faint and he fell from the engine, sustaining injuries almost as serious as those of the brakeman.

Wreck on the Erie's Short Cut.

The Erie had a wreck at Mountainville, on the Short Cut, last night. An engine ran into the rear of Conductor Moyer's freight train with such force that it threw the caboose over a four foot wall into a mill pond and derailed several cars. Fortunately there was no one in the caboose at the time.

The Human Electrical Forces!

How They Control the Organs of the Body.

The electrical force of the human body, as the nerve fluid may be termed, is an especially attractive department of science, as it exerts so marked an influence on the health of the organs of the body. Nerve force is produced by the brain and conveyed by means of the nerves to the various organs of the body, thus supplying the latter with the vitality necessary to insure their health. The pneumogastric nerve, as shown here, may be said to be the most important of the entire nerve system, as it supplies the heart, lungs, stomach, bowels, etc., with the nerve force necessary to keep them active and healthy. As will be seen by the cut the long nerve descending from the base of the brain and terminating in the bowels is the pneumogastric, while the numerous branches supply the heart, lungs and stomach with necessary vitality. When the brain becomes in any way disordered by irritability or exhaustion, the nerve force which it supplies is lessened, and the organs receiving the diminished supply are consequently weakened.

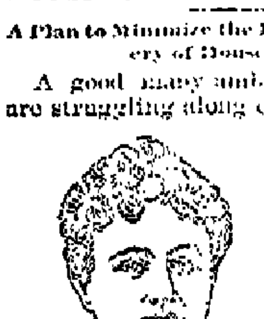
MODEL HOMES FOR MODEST INCOMES.

A Plan to Minimize the Expense and Drudgery of Housekeeping.



MRS. COLEMAN-STUCKERT.

A good many ambitious people who are struggling along on modest incomes will not be surprised to hear that Mrs. Coleman-Stuckert, a bright Denver woman, has concluded that it costs altogether too much to live. That proposition is indisputable as well as [illegible]. Mrs. Coleman-Stuckert has devised a system of "model homes" which will not only diminish the expense and labor of housekeeping, but increase the comforts and conveniences of home.

Mrs. Coleman-Stuckert has been explaining her system to the faculty of Chicago university, and they will probably give the plan a trial. Other communities of Coloradoans are also interested in the scheme, and we are likely to see in Lake City one or more practical exemplifications of the "model home" theory. This is Mrs. Coleman-Stuckert's plan, briefly explained:

Around the outside of a block of land are to be erected 44 houses, all connected so as to form a square of buildings, with fronts of pressed brick and stone trimmings, tastefully constructed and varied in style of architecture. Each house will have either two or three stories, and none will be more than two rooms deep, so as to afford ample light and abundant fresh air. In the central court will be erected a large two story building, where will be located the kitchen, laundry and cold storage plant and the dynamo and improved heating apparatus for supplying electric light and steam heat for the 44 homes. On the second floor of this building will be a kindergarten, and a library, and a large hall, which can be utilized for many purposes.

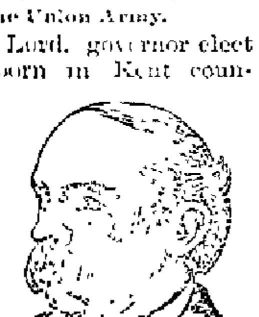
The "model homes" will all be connected with the central building by speaking tubes or telephones, and an electric conduit for carrying the hampers to and from the kitchen. The refuse and dirty dishes will be sent back to the central kitchen to be washed, unless the families own handsome chinaware, in which case it will remain in the home, where it can be washed in a portable sink provided for the purpose. Thus the housewife is spared the worry and trouble of preparing her own meals and washing the dishes. The central building is to be provided also with a large dining hall, where those who prefer to do so can eat their meals, and where large dinner parties can be given.

The cook, the engineer, the laundryman, the electrician and their assistants will all be trained experts in their respective lines, as the community can afford to pay good salaries for their services. Large and comfortable sleeping rooms, etc., will be provided in the central building for the skilled employees. The space inclosed by the block of houses and on either side of the central building can be used for lawn tennis and croquet grounds. And around the inside plat of ground will be a raised promenade, which will be provided with rustic seats here and there, and on the corners of which will be erected small summer houses.

The affairs of this model community will be managed by a board of directors elected by the home owners. According to Mrs. Stuckert, all the comforts of the finest private homes can be enjoyed for less than half the usual cost for the same kind of service. She claims that the table expenses, with a very liberal bill of fare, will amount to but $2 per capita per week.

OREGON'S GOVERNOR ELECT.

Judge Lord Was Born In Delaware and Served In the Union Army.



JUDGE LORD.

William Payne Lord, governor elect of Oregon, was born in Kent county, Del., about 55 years ago. He was educated at home and at Fairfield academy in Herkimer county, N. Y. He began the study of law at Dover, Del., in 1862, in the office of George P. Fisher, a member of congress and subsequently judge of the supreme court of the District of Columbia. The Dover bar was celebrated for its learning at that time, and law students were attracted to that town from all over the peninsula.

War's alarms soon interrupted the young man's studies, and his sympathies being with the north he joined the First Delaware cavalry and was appointed its major. He served till the close of the war and then resumed his law studies, completing them at the Albany Law school.

In 1868 Major Lord went to Salem, Or., and there formed a law partnership with an old comrade in arms, Lieutenant Colonel Napoleon B. Knight, also a Delawarean and a graduate of Union college. Major Lord prospered in [illegible] state and was soon able to return east and take one of the fair daughters of Baltimore for a bride, Miss Juliet Montague, a brunette of rare beauty, well born and highly educated. Mrs. Lord is very popular in the society of Salem and Portland and has [illegible] assisted her husband in the [illegible] of his ambitions.

[illegible] is at present chief justice of the [illegible] Oregon. He will succeed Sylvester Pennoyer as governor on Jan 14, [illegible] and for four years will draw the [illegible] of $1,500 a year appertaining to the office.

"ADAMANT" WALL PLASTER!

The New, Cheap Substitute for Common Plaster.

It is very hard and very adhesive; it does away with the warping and shrinkage of doors and casings, and the building is not saturated with water, as is necessarily must be when common plaster is used; it costs originally but little more than lime plaster, and in the end its superior qualities make it immeasurably cheaper; it saves waiting several weeks or months for the buildings to dry out; it does not crack or fall off, even in the case of leakage; it is applied easily by any good plasterer; it is the only material with which repairing can be done neatly and "to stay."

A WHOLESOME DECISION.

A Telephone Company Has to Pay Roundly For Damaging Trees.

The newspapers lately contained an account of a lawsuit which has interest for every one who believes that the owner of a tree has a right to complain when it is recklessly mutilated. The employees of a telephone company were stretching wires along the road which skirts the property of Mr. George W. Hawkins, near Newburg, and in doing so they disfigured half a dozen spruce trees, which had been planted by his father, by cutting off the branches. No consent to this mutilation had been given by the owner of the trees, and the linemen, it is said, had used their saws and axes without mercy.

Mr. Hawkins sued the company for $600, estimating the damage at $100 a tree. The jury gave a verdict for $100. Under the provisions of the code in this state Mr. Hawkins' lawyers then moved that a triple judgment be made, and the court sustained the defendants by granting this and increased the judgment to $[illegible]. It is to be hoped that the higher courts will confirm this judgment and hold that a growing tree has a value beyond the mere amount of timber [illegible] contains, and that the owner has a right to watch its growth and enjoy the beauty and shade and the pleasure from its association. The courts should take [illegible] that a tree cannot be replaced [illegible] and the wanton destruction of such property ought to [illegible] damages. Ever since the country was settled we have been [illegible] down trees, but it is high time that we learn the real value of those which have escaped and [illegible] to [illegible] us by [illegible] beauty and [illegible] us with their shade.

The decision of this Orange county [illegible] in this state, and such decisions [illegible] companies [illegible] which will make them hesitate to trespass upon [illegible] invading private rights.—Garden and Forest.

THEIR FIRST GOODBY.

A Scene for Hosts of Young Married Couple [illegible]

[illegible]

"I can't help it, Harry. It's so hard to see you go. Why must we ever be separated a single hour? It is too cruel!"

"But I'll be back to-morrow. Be a brave little woman."

"Oh, Harry, I can't!"

"But you must. I'm not worth crying for."

"Yes, you are too."

"Indeed I am not, birdie."

"Indeed you are."

"Well, well, sweetheart, I'm off now. Just one more kiss."

He took a dozen and then gasped out "Just one more."

"I've a mind to keep tight hold of you and not let you go at all," she whispered. "What would you do with ugly old me around all the time?"

"I'd be the happiest woman in all the wide world."

[illegible]

"You don't love me that much!"

"Love you! Oh, Harry!"

[illegible]

"You dear old boy!"

[illegible]

"Is it time for you to really go?"

"Indeed it is. Goodby, birdie."

"Goodby, precious. Are you sure your watch isn't too fast?"

"Oh, it's just right. Goodby, witty-dear."

"Be, my darling. Come home just the minute you can."

"Yes, indeed. I'll run all the way."

"You dear fellow! Goodby."

"Goodby. There's a kiss."

"Let by my thoughts hug!"

The door bangs, and I hear him go down the steps, and I think the agony is ended. He present to the corner, waiting [illegible] way and fluttering his hand-kerchief. [illegible] a dainty little [illegible] from a window [illegible] And I drop into my chair in all my [illegible] and cynicism of my old [illegible] and say:

Well, I hope to goodness it will last, but I just don't believe it will. If I felt sure it would—I don't know but I'd get married myself.—Life.

His Client.

All arrangements had been made to go on a four days' fishing trip to a lake up in Wisconsin. The matter of getting away was easily arranged. One was a young lawyer, fresh to the practice, another had the position of "helping" his father in the office, and the third had nothing to worry him except the selection of cravats. They could apparently have gone for four months just as well as the arrangements were made in consequence. But a strange [illegible]. The young lawyer sought out the others and declared that everything had been upset. Something had [illegible].

"What's the matter?" they asked in consternation.

SHOTS HERE AND THERE

AN "ARGUS" MAN OFF DUTY AIMS AT SEVERAL SUBJECTS.

Boston Women Want a Revised Bible—Trouble In An Old Church—Desirable Qualities in a Husband—Interesting Discussion of An Interesting Subject by Literary Women—Not in the Cemetery.

I notice a paragraph to the effect that some of the advanced women of Boston have started a movement for a revision of the Bible and propose to circulate a petition in the churches asking that the good book be fixed over so as to give women fitting recognition. They say that there is a manifest injustice in the way of which the present version ignores woman, the prophecies and promises almost always referring to "man" alone.

The Presbyterian Church in Pleasant Valley, Dutchess county, which is 150 years old, is on the verge of dissolution on account of the location of the organ. Heretofore the organ and choir have been located in the rear of the church. A few days ago some of the officials moved the organ to the rear of the pulpit. Now the choir refuses to sing and those opposed to the removal have called a meeting of the trustees to discuss the matter and a stormy time is expected.

In the Ladies' Home Journal for July a number of well known women give their opinion of what constitutes a good husband, to the end that girls, who are puzzled as to the true blue qualifications that the young men who are hanging about them should possess, may be guided by the wisdom of experience in selecting their future mates.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps tells the girls to get a "tender man,"—not one tender in spots, but all through, —to wife, mother, sisters, friend. She says: "Marry the man who is permanently thoughtful, kind, unselfish, sympathetic, tender, true and gentle," stopping suddenly as if she might have used many more adjectives but put on the brakes out of consideration for her readers. Mary Hallock Foote advises the choice of a manly man and then explains that she means by a manly man not a mere creature of brawn and muscle, but one possessing "manliness, that distinctive quality, which attracts and rests a woman," all of which is so very vague that for practical purposes her advice is worth next to nothing. The "Duchess," whose novels, lighter than air, are filled with women of peerless beauty and matchless wit, whose vices are dukes and lords and the east of the earth, and who, through much tribulation, brings all her characters to limitless matrimonial bliss, insists that good temper is the most desirable thing in a man. With a good tempered husband, she writes, "all pettiness will sink out of view, and nagging, that frequent curse will be unknown." Amelia E. Barr is evidently of the opinion that girls should not marry, for she sets the standard of masculine excellence so high that very few young men can meet her requirements of piety, unselfishness, industry, wealth, or demonstrated ability to achieve wealth, patience and affection. Just why affection should be put last in the list of necessary qualifications is one of the things that Mrs. Barr perhaps knows, but which is not plain to the rest of the world. Mary J. Holmes, over whose books many generations of girls have wept and smiled, believes that "little courtesies and attentions" count for much in a man's favor and that a girl will not go far wrong who chooses a man who is courteous in small things. Harriet Prescott Spofford is old fashioned enough to say that "love is the main thing after all" and Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher talks in much the same strain. Grace Greenwood concludes the symposium with the very true, sensible and practical assertion that in all her experience she never saw a bad husband evolved from a good son and brother.

The views of these wise women are interesting, but cui bono? which, being interpreted, means "what's the use." The girl who sets out to choose a husband in accordance with the advice of these women would almost certainly die in single blessedness. Each woman, when the time comes for her to answer the most momentous question in a woman's life, will answer it in the good, old haphazard way. And it's a lucky thing for men that women are not so exacting as to set up hard and fast rules by which to select husbands. If they did the man who had hopes of matrimony would have to get up very early and go into special training for the matrimonial state, and even then it would be very arctic eather for homunculus, twelve months in every year.

MIDDLETOWN'S CREDIT ABROAD.

Capitalists Anxious to Invest in Our City Bonds.

That Middletown has good credit among the seekers for investments in municipal bonds is evident from the fact that inquiries are made of the city clerk at frequent intervals to know if the city has any bonds to sell. Last night, the clerk and treasurer both received communications, stating that it was understood that the city was about to issue $10,000 of bonds and asking for information as to their character.

This impression doubtless grew out of the action of the Common Council at the last meeting, authorizing the Mayor to borrow $10,000 in anticipation of taxes.

It shows, however, that capitalists are keeping a close watch on our city, and are anxious to invest in our bonds.

CELEBRATION AT HARLEM PARK.

Everything in Readiness for a Big Time at This New Pleasure Resort.

Messrs. Lea & Corey have had a force of men busily engaged, this week, getting everything in readiness for the celebration, to-morrow, and if the weather proves fair, a gala day is promised. Many tickets have been sold along the line of the Ontario and Western and everything points to a large gathering of people from all sections to witness the celebration. The flags, bunting, lanterns and decorations have all been placed in position, and the park presents a beautiful appearance. The immense balloon in which Prof. Wolcot and Mme. LeMount will ascend is already here, and to-day, the stand for the fireworks display is being erected. The electric road is confident of its ability to furnish transportation for all who attend.

FIVE VERY WET SMALL BOYS

Disastrous Results of Practice for a Tub Race.

Five small boys, who intended to enter for the tub race at Harlem Park on the Fourth, yesterday, stole tubs from their homes and went upon Miller's ice pond to practice. Their frail barks were all wrecked owing to the inexperience of the young navigators and all got a thorough wetting. They went to Miller's spring house and took off their clothes and hung them out to dry. There will be a scarcity of tubs next washday in the North End.

Recorder's Court.

The case of George Bates, one of the men who assaulted Frank Palo, last week, and who has been languishing in the lockup ever since, was called in Recorder's Court, this afternoon. A jury had been drawn and was ready for the trial to begin when it was announced that the complaint had been withdrawn, the defendant agreeing to pay the costs which amounted to seven dollars.

It will be remembered that Bates's brother, Alfred, who was arrested with him and pleaded guilty, was, last week, sentenced to Albany Penitentiary for six months and to pay a fine of $50.

A Luckless Fisherman.

A Middletowner went to the Wallkill to fish, Saturday. He set his pole, placed a large stone upon the end, laid down on the grass under a shade tree and fell asleep. At 9 o'clock that night he was awakened by a party of fishermen who came up the stream and stumbled over him. A big bass had taken hook, line and pole and he returned home only with aching bones.

The Women of Hellas.

Alas for the Greek ideals! Here is what the women of Hellas look like now, as told by a correspondent: "The women wear short, shapeless tight skirts reaching a little above the ankles, made of the same material as their rugs, and a short white tunic made of coarse serge. Their hair is worn in a long braid, and to make it reach past the waist they plait in horsehair or black tow and decorate it with cheap coins, beads or coarse, bright cottons. Greek children are pretty, and so are the very young girls, but when they step from childhood to womanhood they soon lose all their good looks. The women toil not; neither do they spin. They are as lazy as the men and seem to have no higher idea of life than lying in the sun and drinking coffee or cold water. The food is a cross between German and Greek. The bread is black and underbaked, and the butter is churned from sheep's milk and never gets solid. The cow is not a milk purveyor in Athens, but a humble beast of toil. Our breakfasts were served in our rooms and were severely simple. They consisted of green tea, with sheep's milk, black bread and the pure honey of Hymettus. The honey of Hymettus is not so delightful as it sounds, because the bees browse among the strong scented asphodels, with which the mountain is covered, and the result is not appetizing.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Personal Considerations.

Mrs. Home, the wife of the author who wrote "The Tragedy of Douglas," was very infirm and very peculiar and spent her time on a sofa in the unusual occupation of chewing nutmegs.

A gentleman who was a great admirer of her husband's work called one day to see him, and not finding him thought it would be only less delightful to talk with the wife of so celebrated a man. He was ushered into her presence and began to ingratiate himself by praising her husband. She made no answer. Then he attempted to talk on topics of general interest, and still she was silent. At last she spoke.

"Any prospect of a peace?" she inquired.

"Yes," he replied enthusiastically, certain now that conversation had really begun, "there is every hope that a glorious peace will soon be concluded."

"Oh, ayo!" said she. "Will it mak' any difference in the price o' nutmugs?"

The hero worshiper took his leave.—Youth's Companion.

Auction Sales.

Sales by auction, so far from being an invention of late years, were known as far back as the time of the Romans. It is supposed by some that they chiefly used the plan to dispose of the spoils taken in war. As these sales were said to take place under the spear, it is fair to conclude that they stuck a long spear in the ground to mark the place where the sale would be held. It was long the custom in England to mark the time during which bids might be offered by burning an inch of candle, the last offer before the light went out being of course the one that took the article on sale. This custom led many to make no bid until the candle was nearly out, and many often delayed so long that the end of the flame still found them silent.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Should Your Shoes Creak.

Creaking shoes are an intolerable nuisance. Yet some shoes will creak, notwithstanding every precaution. For such intractable wear it is recommended to pour a small quantity of linseed or sweet oil upon a flat surface, like a platter, and allow the soles to stand in the oil over night. In that way they will not only lose the squeak, but will become saturated with the oil, making them proof against dampness. Another cure may be effected by taking them to a cobbler and having one or two pegs driven into the center of the soles.—New York World.

When my little girl was one month old, she had a scab form on her face. It kept spreading until she was completely covered from head to foot. Then she had boils. She had forty on her head at one time, and more on her body. When six months old she did not weigh seven pounds, a pound and a half less than at birth. Then her skin started to dry up and got so bad she could not shut her eyes to sleep, but laid with them half open. About this time, at the earnest request of friends, I started using the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and in one month she was completely cured. The doctor and drug bills were over one hundred dollars, the Cuticura bill was not more than five dollars. My child is now two years old, strong, healthy and large as any child of her age (see photo.) and it is all owing to CUTICURA.
